YAMATO
THE DRUMMERS OF JAPAN

「人の力」 "Hito no Chikara" - The Power of Human strength

Technology is a tool,
It is humans who wield it.

With the advancement of technology,
An era where technology possesses intelligence.

Will humans become tools used by technology?
What will become of human existence?

In this age where humans are alive,
Beat the Taiko drum.

Made of a huge wooden body and cowhide,
Resonating with the power of the human body.

It is the heartbeat.

The Power of Human strength.

Message

“Artificial intelligence” has become a major topic of discussion recently.

Since the birth of humankind, people have been repeatedly making ingenious efforts to make our lives more convenient and better. The development of science and technology.

One of the products of this development is artificial intelligence.

It is said that "artificial intelligence," technology as a tool for people to use, has the potential to surpass people.

It is said that artificial intelligence will take on many of the tasks that have been done by humans.

Will people be used by the tools they have created?

Or will we no longer need people in the future?

What will happen to taiko drumming?

Will there ever be a machine that can play taiko with unparalleled accuracy?

Will advanced algorithms make them sound human-like?

Leaving that aside...

Let us beat the taiko as we are YAMATO.

The sound that one strikes resonates with the human heart.

The sounds struck by the heart, resonating with each other, will become “Hito no Chikara” - The Power of Human strength.

We do not know when the end of humanity is, but we will strike until that moment.

Like the beating of the heart that will continue to beat as long as we live.

So I asked the artificial intelligence ChatGPT about “Hito no Chikara” - The Power of Human strength.

“Hito no Chikara” - The Power of Human strength by ChatGPT

“The Power of Human strength” can evoke various images and interpretations depending on the context. Here are a few possible interpretations:

Strength and resilience: It can symbolize the inherent strength and resilience of human beings. This could be portrayed through images of individuals overcoming challenges, pushing their limits, or demonstrating physical or mental strength.

2. Creativity and innovation: “The Power of Human strength” can also represent the ingenuity and creative abilities of humans. It could be associated with images of artistic creations, technological advancements, scientific discoveries, or any form of human innovation.

3. Unity and collective action: This phrase can highlight the power that comes from people coming together and working towards a common goal. Images depicting teamwork, cooperation, activism, or community engagement can represent the power of human unity.

4. Compassion and empathy: “The Power of Human strength” can be seen through acts of kindness, compassion, and empathy. Images showing people helping others, volunteering, or engaging in humanitarian efforts can illustrate this aspect of human power.

5. Personal growth and self-realization: “The Power of Human strength” can also be interpreted in terms of individual growth, self-improvement, and the realization of one's potential. Images depicting personal achievements, self-discovery, or transformative experiences can represent this aspect of human power.

These are just a few examples, and the meaning of “The Power of Human strength” can vary depending on the perspective and context in which it is used.

AI and “The Power of Human strength” differ in several ways:

1. Autonomy and consciousness: AI operates based on programs and algorithms, autonomously processing information and making decisions. In contrast, “The Power of Human strength” comes from self-awareness, subjective experiences, and conscious actions.

2. Emotions and ethics: Humans possess emotions and can make ethical judgments and act accordingly. AI lacks emotions and ethical considerations, relying on programmed rules and design principles.

3. Creativity and intuition: Humans engage in creative thinking and problem-solving, often relying on intuition. While AI can exhibit a certain level of creativity, its expression differs from human creativity and is based on algorithms and data.

4. Physical constraints: Humans have physical bodies and operate within physical constraints. In contrast, AI exists in a digital form, free from physical limitations, and can process information at high speeds.

5. Experience and learning: Humans learn and grow through experiences. While AI can also learn through algorithms and data, its learning is based on programmed information rather than personal experiences.

Overall, AI exhibits advanced capabilities in information processing and cognition, but “The Power of Human strength” encompasses emotions, ethics, creativity, intuition, physical limitations, and the richness of personal experiences.

Program

1. 躰 Ashioto - Footsteps

It appeared on a barren land, rising at dawn, and began walking toward the sun. It crossed fields, mountains, and valleys, passing through spring, summer, autumn, and winter. As the sun set, it lay down, admired the moon, and counted the stars. Born and vanished, vanished and born again, it rises, walks, and keeps walking. What is it striving for? Why does it continue to walk? The sound of footsteps echoes through the air.

2. 有頂天 Ucho-ten - Rapture

This is the pinnacle of the world. Today, I have reached the highest point I have ever known. For now, I will forget everything and celebrate the self that arrived here today. It is incredible. I feel on top of the world. My life is going splendidly... until the wind blows, sweeping me back to the start. When reality hits, fear creeps in, so I will laugh it all off and keep pushing forward. Tomorrow, I will climb even higher.

I am aiming for the very top.

3. 烈火 Rekka - Wildfire

Bodies collide, flesh against flesh. Sound against sound. But what truly clashes are the inner souls. Each body, ignited by a multitude of souls, burns with flames of varied hues. Sparks fly, as vibrant flames clash, pulsing to the rhythm of beating hearts. The flames begin to synchronize with the beats, becoming one, fiercely and beautifully burning. What can be seen within that blazing unity?

The roar of sound resonates.

4. 我楽多 Garakuta - Odds and Ends

Voices of odds and ends are heard. Their voices, small and cheerful, play with the day today. There is no grand reason to speak of, no particularly profound cause. These odds and ends serve no specific purpose and are of no use to the world. Yet, there is a spirited desire to express this: There is no trash in this world! Everything, surely, is someone's treasure!

Little hearts resonate together.

"Odds and ends" written in kanji as "我 (ga), 楽 (raku), 多 (ta)" translates to "I have fun." This is a comedic piece using a small instrument called a "chappa," not a traditional Japanese drum.

5. 壹徹 Ittetsu - Stubborn

Once I am resolved, I pursue my goal without diversion. I press on with unwavering determination, embodying "stubborn persistence." An unbendable belief, once so steadfast, twists and bends under various temptations. My strong will and resolve sometimes fade, becoming nearly invisible. Even today, struggling not to succumb to defeat, I continue to battle with myself. I live with a clear mind and straight purpose.

Just keep drumming!

6. 熱情 Netsujoh – Passion

Born into this world as a human, carrying a passion that endures as long as life persists. The fervor that burns in the hearts of all who live in the present moment. Now is the time to raise that passion high. With the flame of this fervor, illuminate the darkness and forge ahead on the path that lies before us. Let us raise our voices and thrust our fists skyward. The heart, an engine beating strongly within, sends energy to both body and spirit. Hearts dance with the joy of shared smiles.

O flame of passion, illuminate the world and its people.

7. 爛爛 Ran-Ran – The Glaring Thing

A glowing light within the heart, a brilliance shining deep in the eyes. Quietly present, clearly existing, unyielding to any force that may come. Close the eyes to behold it. With resolve, lift your face, and in that moment of opening your eyes, light bursts forth from within. A flash of brilliance carves out the path that must be followed.

Let us proceed without hesitation.

8. 輩 Yakara – The Guys

Not knowing when one transitions from child to adult. No matter how old we grow, we can never fully become adults. Dreams, hopes, ambitions, and desires. Repeatedly swinging between joy and sorrow. Let us cherish the innocent and pure parts within each other, embracing and supporting one another. Let us stand together, sweating and shedding tears, once more.

Grimly determined.

9. 楽打 Rakuda – Joy of the Beat

“Raku-da” is a coined term combining the kanji for “fun” (楽, raku) and the kanji for “to drum” (打, da). The sound of the term evokes the image of a camel in Japanese. It conveys a sense of the camel's slightly whimsical demeanor, wandering through the endless desert. “Raku-da” represents “drumming with joy,” and this song embodies that spirit. It is considered one of the representative pieces of YAMATO, with the group traveling through an endless world with this music.
